Floating School Bus

School children of Columbus, O., are rowed home from school by a neighbor when flood waters of the Scioto river, a tributary of the Ohio, breaks its banks, forcing a halt to automobile traffic. Meanwhile, flood damage to the entire midwest continues to rise and Coast Guardsmen are being sent into the area from Boston to aid in rescue and salvage work.

Yanks Close On Coblenz, Bonn

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, March 7 (AP) —The powerful American Third Army drive routed Germans to within 15 miles of the middle Rhine today while the First Army fought within three miles of Bonn, 15 miles south of fallen Cologne. On this anniversary of Hitler's militarization of the now overrun Rhineland, the prisoner toll for all Allied armies on the Western Front passed the million mark and rose above 100,000 for the current campaign, which started Jan. 30 with Lt. Gen. Patton's plunge into the Siegfried line east of Luxembourg.

A graveyard of German cities stretched from Cologne 50 miles back to the Reich frontier. Soon after that fourth city of Germany fell late yesterday, the American First and Ninth armies cleared the whole west bank of the Rhine from Rheinberg south to Cologne, save for a fractional pocket at Zons, just south of Duesseldorf. The distance was 45 airline miles.

The last sizable German bridgehead west of the lower Rhine opposite Wesel was hammered down to a strip eight miles long and up to five miles wide. On Monday, 50,000 Germans were estimated to be in the pocket. Many have fled, but now the last two bridges at Wesel are virtually impassable.

The Third Army dash toward the Rhine outflanked the Saar industrial district from the north, just as the Seventh Army outflanked it from the south.

Prisoners were taken by the thousands. The whole German line in the rugged Eifles was collapsing. Third Army losses were extremely light, Associated Press Correspondents Edward D. Ball and Thoburn Wiant wirelessed.

The Fourth Armored Division, a star unit of the Third Army, was plunging toward the Rhine in a narrow corridor — sometimes only the width of a road—extending like a crooked finger northeast from the Kyll bridgehead east of Bitburg. Infantry followed the Fourth Armored Division in vehicles of all descriptions.

The commander of the 53d German Army Corps, Lt. Gen. Edwin Graf von Rothkirch und Trach, who was taken prisoner with his entire staff at his headquarters 12 miles northeast of Bitburg, asked his captors:

"How can you expect to win a war when you have no gasoline and no horses? It will all be over within four months—five months at the most."

Gen. Rothkirk was the commander who besieged Bastogne in Belgium and who got the epic reply of "Nuts" from Brig. Gen. (now Maj. Gen.) Anthony C. McAuliffe to his demand for sur-

Austen Lake Back at Front

AUSTEN LAKE has rejoined the American armies in Europe and his first stories are expected shortly.

This is Lake's fourth trip to the battle zone since we entered the war and his previous reports, through the AMERICAN, to the parents of New England's fighting men overseas, have given him the reputation of being New England's foremost war correspondent.

His colorful, factual stories will deal with what are expected to be the last phases of the battle of Germany and particularly of the parts being played in it by New England's own sons.

RUSSIAN FRONT—The First White Russian army has fought its way to the mouth of the Oder river in a 25-mile advance during the tremendous drive through Pomerania. The swift moving Soviets have captured Cammin, on the Oder delta stream of Drievenow, 37 miles north of Stettin. Stettin's suburbs are already under Red artillery fire.

Red Drive Now Hits Oder Forts

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Russian troops have flung a major assault at Kuestrin intended to overwhelm that fortress on the Oder 39 miles east of Berlin and "establish further attacking bases" against the Nazi capital, the German high command declared today.

The first White Russian army attacked north and south of the city after a 24-hour artillery barrage, the Germans said. Weeks ago the Germans reported Soviet bridgeheads over the Oder 30 to 40 miles from Berlin above and below besieged Kuestrin.

Moscow dispatches making no mention of the Berlin-Oder front, said Soviet troops were sweeping across Wollin, first stepping stone island in Stettin bay to the north, in a push aimed at cutting off Stettin from the sea.

The Berlin radio said " a Russian artillery barrage is raining down on German positions" on the Oder, and "this barrage preceded their all-out offensive on this front."

The Germans reported furious, unabated fighting on what remained of the Germans' Pomeranian front, cut by two Soviet army groupings.

Marines on Iwo Launch All-Out Smash at Japs

By the Associated Press

Marines launched an all-out offensive to push Japanese off the northern cliffs of Iwo island while 10 divisions of American soldiers in the Philippines reorganized today "for the final phases of the Luzon campaign.

SHE RETURNS—Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, with her 6-year-old son, has also returned to Manila to rejoin her famous general-husband. She plans to aid in the care of internees now recovering from Jap brutality, and help rehabilitate the city.

Japanese radios cautioned Cantonese not to get excited about rumors of an impending Allied invasion of the South China coast and babbled about a forthcoming Nipponese offensive in which isolated Japanese island garrisons and the disappearing Imperial Navy would play major roles.

Eight sections of Japan, including Tokyo, were disturbed during the night by at least eight Marianas-based Superforts on their second successive night of widely scattered combination harrying and observation strikes, Jap broadcasts reported.

Another B-29 from China spent three hours at midday scouting over Korea.

After a two-day lull Marines launched their all-out offensive on Iwo yesterday. Japanese fought back so fiercely that the Yanks were held to local gains despite support of tanks, land and naval artillery, carrier planes, and land-based fighters operating for the first time from an Iwo airfield.

The Marines had 600 yards to go to the northeast shoreline and 250 yards to the edge of Suicide Cliffs, with an estimated 6000 Nipponese with their backs to the sea.

The Japanese reported a full scale battle was imminent on the Central Luzon front, east of Manila.

A U. S. headquarters spokesman said a few limited objectives were gained. An original Japanese force of 10 divisions has been pared down from 150.000 to about 60,000 men.

The 129th Regiment were clearing Jap snipers out of 17 sunken ships in Manila bay.

Flying Fort Crash Kills 10 in Scotland

Freed in Army Tragedy

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

KUNMING, March 2 (Delayed) (AP)—An officer at a forward American air base who fired two mercy bullets into the head of a flier hopelessly trapped in a wrecked and burning plane was acquitted today of voluntary manslaughter.

A general court martial of seven colonels drawn from the U. S. 14th Air Force and associated service organizations returned the verdict after hearing 10 witnesses piece together one of the most soul-searing episoues of the war.

The defendant, a 31-year-old lieutenant colonel, is commander of a fighter group, veteran of 80 air missions, and ranking officer at the base. The victim was a 20-year-old sergeant gunner in a B-25 bomber.

The incident took place Jan. 18. Two other crew members of the five-man bomber were killed in the crash, which occurred when the craft overshot the runway on returning to base from a mission against the enemy, and hurtled down a 60-foot embankment.

Witnesses said rescuers reached the wreckage almost immediately. Three men were in the flight compartment at the time—the pilot, co-pilot and the sergeant gunner.

The co-pilot was killed in his chair. The pilot was seriously injured. Both were removed as flames spread through the plane.

Six men, braving gasoline flames, took hold of the sergeant's arms and shoulders, witnesses said, and tried to pull him free, but he was pinioned tightly about his crushed legs behind the armor plate backing of the co-pilot's seat.

Witnesses said a long effort would have been necessary to cut away the metal and that physicians could not get into position to amputate the legs.

All hope of rescue had been given up, witnesses said, when the lieutenant colonel, standing off about 15 feet, fired twice at the sergeant's head.

The main pillar of the defense was medical testimony that the condition of the victim's body, when finally recovered, left a reasonable doubt that the sergeant had died from the bullets rather than from burning.

Yanks in Italy Gain 5 Miles

By SID FEDER

ROME, March 7 (AP)—American mountain troops have gained five miles in the Apennines southwest of Bologna in the strongest advance on the Fifth Army front in weeks, Allied headquarters announced today.

The action was officially described 'a' most successful limited objective attack."

Brazilian troops have seized the town of Castelnuovo.

The objective of the new drive presumably was to gain control of the Pistoia-Bologna highway, which the Germans have dominated far to the south for months through control of a number of peaks.

Legs Is Legs...

BARBARA STANWYCK
She Has No Objections

But—→ Nina Says NO!!!

By ROBERT MYERS

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (AP)—There was a chip knocked off the cornerstone of one of Hollywood's oldest institutions today.

Nina Foch an actress, did it.

The institution was the one founded and dedicated to the cause of leg art.

Nina, a tall blonde and "stubborn Dutch," is agin it.

Her views came to light in court yesterday when her Columbia Pictures contract was approved.

It stipulated "no leg art," and Nina disclosed that previously she and Warner Brothers had parted company over this very issue.

"I even had a row with Mr. Warner over leg art. I wouldn't do it."

"Is there anything wrong with your leg art?" I asked.

"I've had no complaints, but I don't like it. I come from a long line of a long line, and they wouldn't like it either," said Nina.

She said once she did pose for a gag leg shot. "It looked like a . . ." Nina was very frank about what she thought it looked like.

"It is senseless. Unnecessary. It adds nothing to a career or an actress' ability. I'm an actress, not a bathing suit model.

"I've played in 'Surprise in the Night,' 'A Night to Remember,' 'I Love a Mystery,' and I didn't need leg art in those roles," Nine continued.

Hollywood doesn't get it. A Bette Davis, a Barbara Stanwyck can object to leg art, but not a newcomer such as Nina Foch.

Still, she may have something. Her contract is for five years, starting at $250 a week, ending at $1250. In the same courtroom was another actress named Nita Bieber, who said she had no objection to posing for leg art.

Miss Bieber's contract is for one year, at $100 a week.

Hulten's Wife, Mother Put Last Hope in Plea to FD

Nearing collapse, the mother and wife of Pvt. Karl G. Hulten were clinging today to the faint hope that their appeal to President Roosevelt would save the youthful paratrooper from hanging at dawn tomorrow in London for the murder of a taxicab driver.

They had abandoned all other hope at news that British Home Secretary Sir Herbert Morrison had denied a last plea for clemency for the soldier, although he had granted a reprieve to Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, the strip-tease dancer convicted with Hulten.

After word of the home secretary's decision, the paratrooper's wife, Mrs. Rita Hulten, was sent to bed by her doctor with strict orders against discussing the case, even with members of her family. Hulten's mother, Mrs. Signe Hulten, also was near collapse after the news arrived.

Pvt. Karl Hulten

Both women were bitter because clemency had been granted to Mrs. Jones.

"After he's gone this woman can say anything she wants and there'll be no one to deny it," cried the young wife.

"I've said over and over again that he is not a bad boy," said his mother. "I can't understand why she should get a reprieve and not Karl."

"It doesn't make sense," Rita's sister declared. "That girl has a background of a stubborn and delinquent child and a police record. But she gets mercy. Is that English justice?"

Sen. Charles J. Innes, Back Bay, counsel for the wife and mother, also expressed disappointment at the decision and indicated that their hopes now depended on the personal appeal to President Roosevelt.

The failure of the plea to the British home secretary lent a tragic note to what might have been a joyful celebration of Rita's 21st birthday.

"To learn his life had been spared would have been the best birthday gift I could have received," she said. "I've done everything I could. There's nothing more to be done."

Word from London today indicated Hulten had seemed unconcerned when informed at Wormwood Scrubs prison that his plea had been denied.

He slept well and ate a large breakfast without showing any outward display of emotion over the rapid approach of his hour of execution. It was not known whether he had been informed a reprieve had been granted to Mrs. Jones.

Hulten is expected to be removed to Pentonville prison some time today and walk to the gallows there at dawn tomorrow.

'Short Cut to 3rd War'

Beveridge

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Sir William Beveridge, prominent British Liberal, declared today the proposed system of voting in the projected world security organization is "a short way to a third world war."

In a letter to the Times, he said that if the Big Three's voting formula is adopted the small nations would be formally deprived "of all hope of effective support by the world organization for peace."

"The inevitable result of this," he added, "will be that the small powers must seek security in an alliance or dependence on one or other of the great powers.

"That, with spheres of influence, balance of power, competitive armaments and the rest of the old bag of tricks, is a short way to a third world war."

Sir William said the voting proposals meant putting five permanent members of the Security Council above the law which is to be established for all other nations.

Hunt Boy Trio, 2 More Vanish

As the search for three small Charlestown boys who ran away for a camping trip Monday continued in the Spot Pond reservation, the parents of two more runaways appealed to police in Charlestown and East Boston for help in finding their errant offspring.

Mrs. Ellen Lanza of Hancock st., Charlestown, reported that her 9-year-old daughter, Ellen, had slipped out of the house at 8 o'clock last night and vanished.

Mrs. Rose Schepici of Princeton st., East Boston, said her son, Salvatore, 12, had been missing since 3 p. m. yesterday.

Metropolitan Police were making a thorough search of the Fells for the Charlestown camping trio and checking several telephone tips that the boys had been seen in this or that area.

The youngsters emerged once from the woods and were spotted by a brother of one of them in a Scollay sq. theater. He told his parents he had pleaded with the lads to return home, but they refused.

The missing lads are Richard P. Hughes, 10; Raymond T. McCallum, 9, and his brother, Richard, 11, all of Pearl st. A schoolmate at St. Francis de Sales School, Charlestown, told police the three had been plotting a "real he-man" expedition amid the woods and caves of Spot Pond.

RHEINBERG, Germany, March 6 (delayed) (AP)—A Negro tank outfit with the infantry misunderstood when the order came down the line to attack Rheinberg and thought the objective was the Rhine.

"They just turned and went five miles straight to the Rhine," said Capt. Quentin A. Donnella, Emporia, Kan. who had to go after them and bring the tanks back to town.

"When I asked them if they knew where they were, their leader said 'Heck, yes. There's the river right out there.'"

Truck Driver Killed at Crossing

BRIDGEWATER, March 7—Charles F. Farnum, 36, West Bridgewater truck driver and father of three children, was killed in a grade crossing accident today, the town's fourth highway fatality within three days.

Farnum died as his fuel truck was in collision with a train bound from Boston to Hyannis at the Wall st. grade crossing.

Three persons, two men and a woman, were killed Monday when their auto crashed into the rear of a parked truck in Bedford st.

License Fee Proposed For Bay State Drinkers

All Bay State drinkers of alcoholic beverages would have to pay an annual $2 license fee and would be prohibited from drinking if their licenses were revoked or suspended, under one of several recommendations made today by the Special Commission to Investigate the Problem of Drunkenness in Massachusetts.

The commission's proposals were contained in a final report filed at the State House and also included:

1—Establishment of a hospital for treatment of men and women in the early stages of alcoholism.

2—Amendment of the present release laws to permit only one release from custody without arraignment within the year for persons arrested or drunkenness, instead of four, as at present.

3—Legislation forbidding the nol prossing or continuance of appealed cases except with the concurrence of a justice of the superior court.

4—Legislation requiring the labelling of each bottle of liquor as to its ingredients, how to use the contents, and the possible effects if used excessively.

5—Legislation setting up a permanent commission for the continuous study and investigation of all factors relating to the problem of drunkenness in Massachusetts.

The report of the investigation, which was authorized by the Legislature in 1943, was signed by Municipal Court Judge Joseph T. Zottoli, chairman; Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state commissioner of mental health, and Reuben L. Lurie, former chairman of the state parole board. It was also signed, but with reservations, by Matthew W. Bullock, who joined the investigation after he became parole board chairman in December, 1944.

The commission estimated Massachusetts has 20,000 chronic alcoholics out of 1,500,000 drinkers and that the alcoholics cost the state about $61,000,000 annually, including institutional care and the inroads of crime due to inebriety.

With regard to the proposed $2 license, the investigators set forth: "It seems proper that those who indulge in the luxury of alcoholic beverages should contribute in a rather direct way to the care of those among them who abuse the privilege of that luxury."

The licenses would bring the state income of about $3,000,000 annually, it was estimated, with temporary license fees for transients of a week or less adding to the revenue. Revocations or suspensions would be carried out in the cases of license holders found guilty in court of "abusing the privilege of use, to the point of distempering themselves."

The report charged that about 50 per cent of the felonies committed in Massachusetts are related to alcoholism and about 85 per cent of the commitments for misdemeanors are due to alcoholism or crimes related to it.

It was added that 25 per cent of the inmates at the Reformatory for Women, Framingham, are alcoholics, 10 per cent of these being chronic cases.

Further, it was stated that 26 per cent of the cases handled by the Boston Council of Social Agencies are due to alcoholism.

The hospital advocated in the report would be only for the treatment of "early and moderate alcoholics," it being explained: "Alcoholics with physical and mental disabilities and chronic alcoholics of long standing would be treated as at present."

Early and moderate alcoholics, it was recommended, should be segregated in a special hospital, preferably in the country, "with outlets for industrial and occupational therapy, under the care of a staff of experts in the medical field, and with adequate laboratory and other research facilities available."

Use of the Pondville State Hospital, with structural improvements, was suggested.

Ration Fake Probe Hits Night Clubs

Admission by one of seven defendants that he and other alleged peddlers of counterfeit red ration stamps were restricted to particular areas of the city has resulted in a systematic checkup by OPA agents of night clubs and swank cafes to determine if proprietors were implicated in the phony stamp distribution.

The defendant allegedly admitted he had been limited to nightlife restaurants in one particular section of the city and that he knew another peddler who distribution of the phony stamps was confined to downtown cafes.

OPA authorities charged the counterfeit stamps had been used to supply restaurants and night spots with meat, butter and cheese, and their present investigation wa sto determine how many were involved.

The latest development in the probe came as a Medford and North End dealer was arested on a charge of transferring 2000 of the spurious coupons to a Boston restaurant.

The Medford suspect, Pasquale Capaldo, 40, of Hale ave., was arraigned before U. S. Commr. Martin T. Hall in federal court and was held in $2500 bail for hearing March 24, after pleading not guilty to the charges. He was the eighth man arrested and arraigned since the probe of the racket began.

Capaldo, besides owning his own market, is employed in a Salem st., North End, meat market. He pleaded not guilty to wilfully transferring 2000 ration tickets equivalent to 20,000 ration points for meats, fats and cheese. A second count charges that the ration points are counterfeit.

He was also charged in an additional complaint with possessing one gallon of tax unpaid, distilled spirits. On this charge March 29 was set for hearing.

Additional arrests are predicted by OPA officials as the result of the discovery that peddlers of the bogus coupons were doing business with night clubs and restaurants.

Equal Rights

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 7 (AP)—State Rep. Mary Varallo, who is married, says wives "aren't persons" under Pennsylvania law.

They don't have equal rights with men, maidens or widows in selling or mortgaging real estate, she complained in her first speech in the House, introducing a bill to correct things. It passed, 161 to 21.

Mayor, Bishop Hit Race Discrimination

More than 600 persons crowded into the State House Gardner Auditorium today as religious leaders and other men of liberal thought championed bills which would prohibit discriminatory employment practices based on race, color, creed or national origin.

Messages urging the legislative committee on state administration, the hearing group, to mold the necessary legislation out of seven bills now before it, were received from Bishop Henry K. Sherrill, of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts; Methodist Bishop Lewis G. Hartman and Mayor Kerrigan of Boston.

Bishop Sherrill called for "an adequate statute to enable enforcement of fair employment practices."

Bishop Hartman wrote the committee it had before it "one of the great moral issues before our entire nation."

Mayor Kerrigan, whose communication was presented by Thomas E. Linehan, legislative agent for the City of Boston, told the committee:

"I wholeheartedly endorse the principles behind the bills now before your group. I am opposed vigorously and steadfastly to any discriminatory practice and I shall do all I can to eradicate the evils of racial, religious and nationality prejudice.

"Ours is a cosmopolitan state and the city over which I have the honor to preside as mayor contains citizens of all creeds, races, colors and national origins. All must receive justice.

"Our fighting men in the armed forces are engaged in a desperate struggle to guarantee and assure the democratic way of life and make possible the realization of full equality, not alone before the law but also in the economic opportunities to earn a self-respecting livelihood."

Lensman's Own Story Of a Great War Picture

MARINE FLAG RAISING ON MT. SURIBACHI

By JOE ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Photographer, on Assignment With the Wartime Still Picture Pool

GUAM, March 7 (AP)—"See that spot of red on the mountainside?" the bos'n shouted above the noise of our landing craft nearing the shore at the base of Suribachi Yama.

"A group of marines is climbing up to plant our flag there. I heard it from the radioman."

He was plenty excited—and so was I.

The fall of this 560-foot fortress in four days of gallant marine fighting was a great thing. A good story and we should have good pictures.

So in I went, back to more of that slogging through the deep volcanic sand, warily sidestepping the numerous Japanese mines. On past the culverts where the Japanese dead lay among the wreckage of their gun positions and up the steep, winding, always sandy trail.

Marine Pvt. Bob Campbell, a San Francisco buddy of mine, and Sgt. Bill Janausk of Tacoma, Wash., were with me and carried firearms for protection (which is disallowed to correspondents).

There was still an occasional sharp crack of rifle fire close by and the mountainside had a porcupine appearance of bristling all over, what with machine and antiaircraft guns peering from the dugouts, foxholes and caves. There was little sign of life from these enemy spots, however. Our men were systematically "blowing out" these places and we had to be on our toes to keep clear of our own demolition squads.

As the trail became steeper, our panting progress slowed to a few yards at a time. I began to wonder, and hope this was worth the effort, when suddenly over the brow of the topmost ridge we could spy men working with the flagpole they had so laboriously brought up about three-quarters of an hour ahead of us.

I came up and stood by a few minutes until they were ready to swing the flag-bearing pole into position.

I crowded back on the inner edge of the volcano's rim, back as far as I could, in order to include all I could in the scene within the angle covered by my camera lens.

I rolled up a couple of large stones and a Japanese sandbag to raise my short height clear of an intervening obstruction. I followed up this shot with another of a group of cheering marines, and then I tried to find the four men I heard were the actual instigators of the grand adventure. But they had scattered to their units and I finally gave it up and descended the mountain to get the pictures out and on their way to possible publication.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The picture of a group of United States Marines raising the flag atop Mt. Suribachi on the south end of Iwo Island has been acclaimed all over the nation as one of the most dramatic of the war. The photographer who took the picture is Joe Rosenthal, a short, jolly, wiry, mustached fellow who will go anywhere to record a stirring action. Here, for the first time, he tells the background of the Suribachi picture.)

The way down was quite a bit easier, the path becoming well worn, and men were carrying ammunition supplies, food and rations necessary for complete occupation of this stronghold.

The Marines' history will record Iwo Jima as high in their many gallant actions in the Pacific war.

I have two very vivid memories: the fury of their D-Day assault and the thrill of that lofty flag-raising episode.

It is hard now in the quiet atmosphere of this advance base to find words for it. The Marines at Iwo Jima were magnificent.

Clare Luce Silent But War Office Talks

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce plans to leave England today for an "undisclosed destination," she said. The war office reported her trip would include Italy, where she will visit British troops at the personal invitation of Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander.

After her return she is expected to make a study of the British women's war activities.

Mid-West Floods Worst in 8 Years

Worst floods in eight years shut down war plants, drove thousands from their homes, caused many deaths and disrupted transportation in Ohio river lowlands and along the Mississippi today.

The Associated Press gives this summary:

OHIO RIVER VALLEY—Eight dead, thousands homeless and hundreds of war plants shut down. Red Cross estimates 5000 to 6000 families evacuated from homes in Cincinnati area. Western Pennsylvania faced worst danger since 1942 with Allegheny and Monongahela rivers above flood stage.

War plants and railroads in Pittsburgh area prepared to remove machinery. Seven coal mines employing 3000 workers closed at Bellaire, O. Hundreds evacuated from lowlands around Louisville, Ky.

Flooded its entire length through 981 miles of rich industrial and agricultural districts, the Ohio rose toward record stages reached at Cincinnati only in 1937 and 1884.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY—Army engineer troops thrown into fight to save threatened levees along lower White river in Arkansas. One hundred families homeless and others expected to be forced out west of Dyersburg, Tenn., where the Mississippi river pounded a stretch of levee. Conditions were improved in Mississippi delta.

Freeze Halts Peril Of N. E. Floods

Freezing temperatures in northern New England have ended any immediate possibility of floods in this area, the weather bureau announced today.

The drop in mercury checked the runoff from Tuesday's rain in the upper Merrimack and upper Connecticut river valleys, officials said. Below freezing weather was expected to continue in those areas throughout tonight.

Observers were further encouraged by predictions that there is no precipitation, either rain or snow, in sight for the next few days.

In Greater Boston, a brisk north wind was expected to send the mercury down into the lower 20's tonight. Tomorrow will be fair and continued cold, the weatherman said.

Prowler Invades Nurse's Room

Nurses at the Forest Hills Hospital were thrown into a turmoil early today when a prowler forced entrance to the room of Nurse Mildred Englert in the nurses' home.

Despite a warning to be quiet, the nurse screamed and Supervisor Gladys Cole ran to her aid. Before she reached the room, however, the prowler fled.

Glamor Gone, Child Bride, 11, Asks Decree

TAZEWELL, Tenn., March 7 (AP)—A child bride, who was only 11 years old at the time of her marriage in Georgia in 1942, and her 55-year-old husband have come to a parting of the ways.

A suit for divorce or annulment of the marriage was filed in circuit court by Mrs. Wilma Joan Buchanan, who alleges Walter Buchanan beat and abused her.

SECRET BRIDAL HINTED—Marguerite Chapman, Hollywood actress, is reported by friends to be the secret bride of Capt. Stanley Pierson, former Princeton athlete, with whom she has been spending all her free time in the film capital. The happy couple refuse to confirm the report.

FHA Officials Silent In GI Rent Rise Row

Federal housing officials today declined to comment on the refusal of Thomas H. McNamara, superintendent of the Washington Elms apartments in Cambridge, to put into effect a rent increase authorized by the agency headquarters in Washington.

McNamara's stand was disclosed as mounting protests against the increases were registered by wives of men in the armed forces who claimed the jump in rents at the Washington Elms and Newtowne Court projects would take food from their children's mouths.

"The least the government could do is take care of the families of men they have taken from their wives and children," asserted Mrs. James T. Craig, a resident of Newtowne Court. Her husband has served in five major engagements with the Navy.

Mrs. Craig is the mother of three children, James, 9; Robert, 3, and Elizabeth, 18 months. The $24 monthly rent she has been paying is due to be hoisted to $30 on April 1. She receives a monthly allotment of $120.

"James has a sinus condition which requires constant medical treatment. If our rent goes up, his treatments will have to continue and that will be at the expense of our food and clothing budget," she explained.

She said her husband turned over $76 weekly to her before the war.

"I'd be glad to pay higher rent, if we had the money," she said. "It's not a matter of charity. If my husband wasn't in the service and was earning good money in a war plant, things would be different."

Mrs. Helen Walsh, whose husband, William, is a sergeant with the 15th Air Force in Italy, declared the $6 rent boost to $30 a month was unfair.

Misconduct of Divorced Wife No Bar to Alimony

HARTFORD, Ct., March 7 (AP)—The Connecticut Supreme Court has ruled a woman is not responsible to her former husband after divorce and in cases of absolute divorce misconduct by her is no ground to deprive her of alimony.

In a decision written by Chief Justice William M. Maltbie, the state's appeals tribunal today set aside a decision by Superior Court Judge Patrick B. O'Sullivan denying reinstatement of alimony to Mrs. Louise A. Christiano of Darien. The alimony had been revoked by the court a year after her divorce from Dominic Christiano in 1938, on the ground she had been arrested several times for intoxication.

The high court's decision read in part that "as alimony is but the continuance, after divorce, of the duty of a husband to support his wife, it is difficult to see why any conduct on her part after the judgment would free him from the obligation if the same conduct before the divorce would not have had that effect.

"Where a woman who has divorced her husband for misconduct comes into court seeking an order for support," the ruling states, "her general character is not in issue and misbehavior on her part is material only as it affects the matter in litigation. It is not the function of the court to attempt to serve as an agency for her regeneration."

Lynn Ex-Treasurer F. A. Turnbull Dies

Frank A. Turnbull, 76, former Lynn city treasurer for 30 years and long prominent in municipal and fraternal affairs, died today in his home, Ramsdell pl., Lynn, after a long illness.

He leaves his wife, F. Adelaide Breed Turnbull, two daughters, Mrs. Robert Blood of New Hampton, N. H., and Mrs. John W. Whitmore of Lynn, and a son J. Roger Turnbull of Lynn.

Funeral will be held Friday at 2 p. m. from the H. W. Parker Funeral Home, 35 Franklin st., Lynn.

London Dock Strike Seen Near Settlement

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Striking London dock workers are being urged by their central committee to return to their jobs tomorrow on assurances by union leaders that an inquiry would be made into their grievances.

Earlier, strikers at the Tilbury docks, 20 miles below London, had voted to return to work tomorrow and place their grievances in the hands of negotiators. The Tilbury workers joined the strike only yesterday.

Priority cargoes meanwhile still were being handled by 3500 soldiers.

Taylor Sees Pope

VATICAN CITY, March 7 (INS)—Pope Pius XII received Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's envoy to the Vatican, today in an audience which some observers said may have been connected with the missions of Archbishop Francis J. Spellman and Edward J. Flynn.

(Among the objects of these missions reportedly is the improvement of relations between the Vatican and Russia.)

WMC to Push Job Draft Plan

NEW BEDFORD, March 7—In the face of a challenge from the head of the CIO Textile Workers Union that discharge of any mill worker because of the WMC's labor draft will result in a general textile strike, the WMC here today proceeded with its plans to force workers into tire cord plants.

The strike warning came from Antonio England, local director of the TWU, bargaining agent for employes in the four mills which WMC officials were to visit today to interview 33 workers listed for transferral to the Fisk and Firestone tire mills.

"In view of the need for textile production, I doubt if the WPB would be so asinine as to try to save face for the bungling of the WMC," England added.

Telephone Workers Vote Strike Notice

NEW YORK, March 7 (INS)—Executive committees of two New York telephone employes' unions were empowered today to file a 30-day strike notice, in accordance with provisions of the Smith-Connally act.

Hub Girl, 13, Sacrifices Her Birthday Cash for Red Cross

One of the proudest fathers in Boston is displaying a letter today he received from his 13-year-old daughter, attending school in New Hampshire, about the Greater Boston 1945 Red Cross War Fund.

The letter of which the Red Cross had no knowledge, was sent to the Boston American by the father, and it speaks for itself.

"Dear Daddy," it says, "writing you about the birthday present you promised me. Please do not buy me a dress or send me the money. The best present you can give me would be to give the money to the American Red Cross.

"Maybe it will help bring a little comfort to one of our sick or wounded soldiers who has a little girl at home who needs happiness more than I do.

"Or it might help buy food and medicine for some poor child without home or parents in the war-torn countries. If the money brings some happiness to unfortunate children, then I will have a happy birthday. Please do not be mad because I ask you to make my present this way.

"The fields, woods and hills and the flowers in our lovely garden will look much more beautiful this summer if I know I helped bring good cheer into the life of an unhappy kid. That is a birthday present you can give me which all the money in the world could never buy."

Romania, Italy May Test Yalta Decrees

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—American diplomatic officials are watching with growing concern the spread of internal disturbances in Romania and Italy.

Although the troubles in these countries apparently stem from different causes, in each they involve vigorous Communist leadership. There is a large possibility that each may bring into play the principles, if not the actual machinery, of the Big Three decisions at Yalta for the protection of liberated European countries.

Romania is so completely within the Russian sphere of influence that there are strong suspicions here that Moscow has been fully aware of efforts to engineer a Communist coup in that country and of the continuing attempts to establish what is regarded here as a Communist minority in positions of power.

The Italian outburst, on the other hand, is attributed more to the awkward handling of Italian affairs by the Allied Military Command and the bungling and inertia of Premier Bonomi which allowed the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta, army chief of staff under Mussolini and who is accused of war crimes.

Communist leadership in the mass protests in Rome yesterday was evident by the fact the throngs which gathered before Quirinal palace shouted "Death to the King!" and waved the traditional red flag of the party.

Initially there was a comparable situation in Romania. While the government of Premier Radescu was as representative of the country's political parties as a handpicked group could be, it lacked initiative in determining and prosecuting war criminals.

Latest reports here are that a democratic front leader, Groza, is in the process of forming a government which probably would have a strong Communist coloring.

Rome Rioting, Bombing Spread to Prison

ROME, March 7 (AP)—Disorders spread to the Regina Coeli Prison and sporadic bomb explosions throughout Rome punctuated Italy's crisis today.

Following yesterday's clash before the Royal Palace between carabinieri and a crowd in which a Communist demonstrator was killed and several persons were wounded, convicts and persons awaiting trial for Fascist crimes burst out of their antiquated cells at the prison before dawn. Police and firemen quelled the riot with fire hose streams.

Bombs burst sporadically in various sections of the capital and crowds were reported to have demonstrated before carabinieri barracks in outlying sections.

Tiny Girl Winning Fight for Life

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—A girl baby, who weighed only one pound 13 ounces at birth, was reported to be doing very well by the doctor who delivered her Saturday night.

The infant, daughter of S 2c Theodore Morell, 30, and his 29-year-old wife, Sidnee, was born three months prematurely but is perfectly formed and fully developed, Dr. Abraham Andrews said.

Communist Seen Wallace Aide

By DAVID SENTNER

WASHINGTON, March 7 — Mordecai Ezekiel, early New Deal leftist "economist" and leading exponent of collectivist theories, is scheduled to be appointed by Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace as his first assistant, it was learned today.

It will be a reunion of two prime planners, as Ezekiel in the role of economic adviser to Wallace when the latter was Secretary of Agriculture organized the plowing under of crops and the killing of pigs which drove American farmers into a dither.

Ezekiel's affiliations with Communist front organizations are recorded in the files of the House un-American Activities Committee.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Quickly Relieves Children's Colds' Coughs, Loosens Phlegm

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

Tufts Students Join In Monroe Contest

Joining with enthusiasm in the William Randolph Hearst Oratorical Contest, "James Monroe and the Monroe Doctrine," students and faculty at Tufts College have given hearty endorsement to this patriotic project, and will select their representatives to compete in the local elimination tests in Faneuil Hall April 10.

"This contest," declared Prof. John Woodruff, director of the department of public speaking at Tufts, "should inspire the young people of America to study the life of a great President who made such an important contribution to American statesmanship and to friendly relations between North and South Americans."

Prof. Harold Blanchard, director of the English department, also endorsed the contest.

Already nine colleges and 50 Boston public and parochial schools have enrolled their students, and preliminary contests have been launched in the respective schools. The winners of the local contest will be eligible to compete for prizes which total $25,000 in war bonds in a nation-wide contest in which 13 key cities will participate.

The names of the winners of the intramural contests are to be forwarded to the Oratorical Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. The contest is being sponsored locally by the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

Winners of the Faneuil Hall local contest will be eligible for the eastern zone contests to be held in New York. Winners in each zone will then participate in the national contest. Local prizes in Boston, equally provided for both college and high school groups are: first, $250; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $50; fifth, $25.

National prizes, also in war bonds, are: first, $1000; $100 to all runners-up in the national finals; $50 to all qualifying for the eastern zone finals, in which the winners in Boston, New York, Albany and Baltimore will compete; $50 to all students who qualify in their local zone finals.

Lt. Col. Oswald F. Hedley of Newtonville, veteran public health service officer, has been picked for an important part in the American military government's administration of captured Cologne, the Associated Press reported from that devastated city today.

Hedley is to be responsible for the public health of the Rhineland metropolis, where the population was almost 800,000 before three years of Allied bombing laid most of it in waste.

As the Newtonville man and other high-ranking officers of the AMG were moving in to take over, Cologne was a city without electricity, telephone service, running water or public transportation.

Somerville Nun, B. C. Priest Set Free at Manila

Among 53 Maryknoll Sisters released from Santo Tomas prison when American forces liberated Manila was Sister Rose Catherine, daughter of Mrs. Edward P. Sullivan of Josephine ave., West Somerville, Maryknoll headquarters announced today.

Release of Sister Rose Catherine was announced in a telegram to the Maryknoll, N. Y., headquarters from the American Prisoner of War Information Bureau. The message stated that the Somerville nun had formerly been interned at Los Banos prison camp.

Sister R. C. Sullivan

She is a sister of Sister Mary Edwina, who is at the mother - house at Maryknoll, and joined the sisterhood in 1935. Four years later she was assigned to the Philippines.

Among other Massachusetts residents released from prison camps in the Philippines was Rev. Russell M. Sullivan, S. J., former dean of freshmen at Boston College and director of the Legion of Decency in the Boston archdiocese, and James P. Burns, superintendent of schools in Manila, the War Dept. announced.

Burns was school superintendent in Manila before the Japs captured the islands. He is the brother of Miss Annie Burns of Tyler st., Hyde Park.

News of the liberation from a Jap prison camp of Bishop Norman S. Binsted, Episcopal bishop of Tohoku, Japan, also came in a notice from the War Dept. to Mrs. George W. Bailey of Webster rd., Weston, whom he had never seen but had listed as a friend.

Other prisoners released were: Rev. Joseph F. Boyd, member of the Oblate Fathers of Lowell; Rev. Joseph D Coteau Douglas, Genevieve M. Sniffen, Montvale ave., Woburn; Ida M. Wolfram, Beacon st., Boston, and John Oppenheimer, Bartlett st., Lowell.

Music and Makeup Share Limelight at Wives' Club

Servicemen's wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts will be treated to a mixed program of music and makeup magic, at their first regular meeting of the Service Star Club in Dorchester High School for Girls.

The Dorchester school center club will meet at 8 p. m. in Dorchester High School for Girls, and is open to all women relatives of service men. A second Service Star Club is being opened under school committee auspices at 8 p. m., Friday, in the William Howard Taft School, located in Brighton across from St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Miss Kathryn Kenny, former officer of beauty associations, and hair stylist and cosmetician, will perform make-up magic on models selected from among the servicemen's brides and relatives in the audience. She will demonstrate latest hair styles and will give the GI wives, mothers and sweethearts a preview of a glamor bag of tricks they can hoard for that precious furlough.

As a door prize, Miss Kenny will generously donate a free permanant wave at her Commonwealth ave. beauty salon.

The musical mood will be woven by the piano music of 18-year-old Arthur Ray, featured entertainer at the Hotel Myles Standish, who will play a program of popular music and favorite Viennese waltzes.

render of the 101st Airborne Division. The Fourth Armored Division, which captured the general and his staff, was the same which broke the Bastogne siege.

As the Fourth raced toward the Rhine, the Fifth Infantry Division widened the corridor farther back. Scores of towns were taken. Most of their names were withheld under the continuing Third Army blackout.

Cologne with its vast ruins was the largest German city to fall either in this war or the last. Its 768,000 peacetime population made it about the size of Boston. Though shattered by repeated bombings, it still is the greatest traffic center in western Germany and was the site of vast and varied industries.

It was one of the first cities into which Hitler sent his Wehrmacht on March 7, 1936, scrapping the treaty of Versailles. Its five bridges across the 1300 to 1700-foot Rhine have been wrecked.

Moving on Bonn, Lt. Gen. Hodges' First Army gained up to eight miles last night. Outside the city, the First Army was 35 miles northwest of Coblenz and in a position to form with the Third Army a trap on Germans tarrying in the Eifels.

Patton's army also was in a position to sweep south along the Rhine valley toward Karlsruhe past such imposing cities as Coblenz, Weisbaden, Mainz, Ludwigshafen, Mannheim and Speyer and, with Lt. Gen. Patch's Seventh Army, cut off Germans in the Saar.

Patton was past and behind the Siegfried line; Patch was before a double belt of the fortifications at their thickest depths.

The whole front was splattered by rain for the second day, preventing close air support during early morning. British heavy bombers overnight added to the chaos and confusion of ragged remnants of the German First Parachute and 15th Armies trying to escape the Wesel bridgehead as American, British and Canadian troops cracked it from north, south and west.

Canadian infantry and tanks were spearing from positions west and north of Xanten, Rhine ferry point, and were six miles from Wesel. The Rhine west bank was in Canadian hands all the way from Wesel to Nijmegen in Holland. Sonsebeck fell.

Act Now

for 450,000 Veterans and 325,000 Citizens over sixty.

This is no Strayer report made at public expense and is offered respectfully. The opinions are by men of world-wide experience and men who had success in business. The facts can easily be found to be true.

Massachusetts is now a has-been state. For years the Legislature has been running like a graveyard. The voters gave notice by deciding to return to annual sessions although money was paid by selfish interests to protect something they will lose when found out.

These proposals can be made laws by initiative and referendum, but the veterans and old people will be neglected for a year or more delay.

Small business has small chance here and now. The once great shoe industry has gone largely to other states that invite by better treatment of small business.

450,000 veterans will soon be here looking for jobs. What plans has the Legislature for them? Our big business concerns are already planning for building factories in foreign countries with cheap labor.

Our old people are cast off like worn-out machinery, but this state pays the Federal collectors about six hundred millions a year for Federal Carpetbaggers estimated at 114,000, regimenting and making more expense for all citizens by their foolish acts and methods. Whatever the Federal bureaus do in this state costs at least ten dollars for one, if done by the state.

Social Security is even worse than that. Manpower and employment are worse still. It will be hard to find anyone in a Federal job who ever made a success in a business of his own. The enclosed plans are suggested respectfully. They will provide employment for more than 450,000 veterans and others.

The pension plan will pay all the cost and estimated 324 millions more by profit on circulation of the money now improperly held by Federal bureaus and pay roll tax collections and a proportionate tax on bank deposits to cover citizens of sixty not on Social Security. The business from this plan will provide such earnings on bank deposits that the depositors will have more income after tax than they now have.

A copy of this letter is sent to Members of the Legislature and will be sent to daily newspapers.

Reich Rails, Oil Plants Hit Again

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—More than 900 U. S. heavy bombers struck in a seven-pronged attack today at oil plants in the Dortmund area, a large railway viaduct at Bielefeld and railroad yards at Soest and Siegen after steady RAF night assaults on German troops massed at Wesel on the Rhine.

The Eighth Air Force bombers were covered by 250 fighters in this 23rd straight day of aerial blows closely co-ordinated with the ground attack.

Smashing of the Bielefeld viaduct would stop the main flow of traffic from the big inland bases of Brunswick and Hannover to the Ruhr battlefield.

British Fleet's Role in Pacific Still Mystery

(Editor's Note—This is the second story in as many days from Australia indicating something has gone wrong in the assignment of British naval forces to aid our fleet in the war against Japan.)

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 7 (AP)—Comment by Associated Press War Correspondent Charles McMurtry that immediate joint offensive operations by the American and British fleets is impracticable because of the difference in ship speeds was challenged in quarters close to naval circles today.

Significantly, British naval censors allowed publication of comment by Denis Warren, naval correspondent for the Melbourne Herald, now attached to British Pacific fleet headquarters. He recently spent several months with Adm. Nimitz's fleet. Warren said:

"The rolethe British fleet is to play in the Pacific appears to be inthe balance. Reports from American sources in the Central Pacific leave little doubt of a hitch in plans for combining the British and American fleets in major operations against the Japanese.

"Adm. Bruce Fraser's announcement the British fleet is ready for action should foreshadow action stories in the immediate future, but it seems he was merely expressing a polite, but careful, rebuke to authorities in Washington.

"If the British fleet is indeed ready for action, a statement from Washington outlining its role would dispose of harmful stories current here and in America, first, that the British fleet is not wanted in the Pacific, and, second, that British ships are not suitable for use at long range."

The Equitable

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES

reports on its progress in serving human needs

THE PURPOSE of The Equitable is to serve human needs—to enable policyholders through co-operative action to achieve security to a degree that would not be possible through individual effort alone.

The Equitable during the past year continued to grow in usefulness to the American public and to the war economy of the nation. A total of $609,026,000 of new Equitable life insurance was purchased in 1944. This volume is a tribute to the foresight and patriotism of a large proportion of the American people, who are refraining from spending their money needlessly and instead are putting it aside for the future.

It is likewise a tribute to the work of Equitable agents in carrying the story of life insurance and its benefits to the public. Most people, even though they realize their need for the protection that life insurance provides, tend to defer its purchase and must be persuaded to do that which will mean much to their welfare and happiness.

The aggregate of Equitable protection at the year-end was $8,897,754,000—a record.

Benefit payments to policyholders and their families averaged $26,000 an hour throughout the past year, a total of $230,992,000.

The increase in dividend rates on most types of policies, put into effect last year, is being continued for 1945, thus maintaining the low net cost of Equitable protection. An aggregate of $43,801,000 is scheduled for distribution to policyholders as dividends during 1945.

The Equitable continued to grow in financial strength during 1944, assets increasing $318,329,000, a larger gain than in any previous year. Total assets are $3,507,983,000.

Holdings of United States Government obligations have increased to $1,568,317,000, representing policyholder funds directly helping to speed victory. In addition to the purchase of Government securities, The Equitable made diversified investments in corporate securities in 1944 at an average yield of 3.51%.

Life insurance is serving well in the war. It has extended and enlarged its protection of the American Family. It has helped those in distress. It has encouraged thrift and combated inflation. It has contributed greatly to the financing of the war.

In the peacetime future of our country, life insurance will be an equally dynamic factor. While continuing as a bulwark of family security, its investment funds will help industry speed reconversion and expand production, thereby providing jobs.

Life insurance investment funds have played an important role in the development of America. What life insurance has done in the past to aid the national economy, it will do on an even vaster scale and with larger inspiration in the America of tomorrow.

LABOR UNION TREASURIES

UNDER THE NEW DEAL, the labor union is becoming the dominating institution of the country.

By means of the Wagner Act and Federal Labor Board Decrees, wage earners are COMPELLED to belong to unions, and to pay POLITICAL assessments as well as dues, FOR THE RIGHT TO WORK.

This form of extortion is now being extended to enterprise, upon which exactions are being levied FOR THE RIGHT TO CONTINUE IN BUSINESS.

James Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, made the pattern when he forced all recording and transcribing music companies to pay royalties into the treasury of his organization.

The money goes into what Mr. Petrillo calls the "Employment Fund," which already amounted to millions of dollars, and gives to Mr. Petrillo, as the Czar of the union who may disburse its money as he sees fit, an enormous power.

JOHN L. LEWIS has now sought to apply the Petrillo formula on a much larger scale.

In submitting proposals for a new wage agreement, Mr. Lewis demands a royalty of ten cents a ton on all soft coal handled by members of his United Mine Workers.

It is estimated that Mr. Lewis' Union would receive as much as sixty million dollars a year in royalties.

This income, according to the statement of the United Mine Workers, would be "available" for "economic protection," which of course can mean anything, including—as the Political Action Committee demonstrated in last year's primary elections—UNLIMITED POLITICAL CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

If Mr. Lewis has his way—and usually he does—other labor leaders will follow suit.

It looks very much as if sinister labor leaders themselves, such as Mr. Petrillo and Mr. Lewis, will compel Congress to enact laws making labor unions financially answerable to the public and restraining them, as corporations are supposedly restrained, from either direct or indirect participation in politics.

If that is not done, labor unions will become a form of super-government in the United States and labor bosses will dictate our statutes.

MEDALS AND MORTGAGES

IN THESE DAYS of magnificent spending it would be interesting to know how many office-holders in Washington are conscious of what they are doing to the 12,000,000 men in the armed services and their families.

Admittedly these 12,000,000 and their families constitute 40 per cent of the population, and include the future leaders of every profession, industry, trade and calling.

On a mere quantitative basis these 12,000,000 and their families will shoulder $120,000,000,000 of a national debt of $300,000,000,000, and on a qualitative basis much more.

That millstone around the necks of the returned 12,000,000 is already certain and would seem quite a first mortgage to pile on war-weary men who have given everything.

But in addition each day we read of the piling on of more debt, the carrying of hundreds of thousands of unnecessary civil employes, the giving away of billions of dollars.

Of course every extra billion means more debt and out of every extra billion $400,000,000 more will be piled on the backs of the 12,000,000 war heroes and their families.

The Washington office-holders are riding high, and they are piling unnecessary debt on the war heroes wantonly and wickedly.

Simultaneously they put a medal on G. I. Joe's chest and pile another mortgage on his back.

What a travesty on justice and decency it is, that glib, incompetent, and power-drunk politicians can condemn 12,000,000 of the bravest of fighting men, and their loved ones to untold years of toil and sacrifice in the days of peace.

—THOMAS MOORE.

"THE files of Our Horses & Women Department have listed 23 reasons why a man and wife should have separate rooms." That statement was recently made here. Since then innumerable subscribers have asked: "What are these reasons?" One is that the husband should have what is distinctly a man's room and the wife should have a boudoir of her own. The way it works out now is the bedroom shared by man and wife is usually very much of a boudoir. A place designed, decorated and furnished for feminine occupancy. Another reason the married should have separate rooms is to make it possible for either to turn out lights when they want to. It will not be necessary for a man to stay awake while his wife finishes a mystery story or vice versa. The other 26 reasons for separate rooms will be commented on in an early issue.

LOYAL MASTER: Three and a half years ago a greyhound named Bobbie killed a cat in Sheffield, England. Bobbie's owner, C. H. S. S. Parsons, was ordered by the court to have the dog destroyed or to pay a fine of £1 ($4) a day the dog was alive. So far Mr. Parsons, a man of average circumstances, has paid £632 ($2528) in fines in addition to £200 ($800) in legal fees to keep his beloved dog alive.

TELL-TALE LIPSTICK: Still another wife has named as grounds for divorce that on her husband's handkerchief she found lipstick smears not from her lipstick. Remarkable how lipstick differs. There must be at least ten million kinds of lipsticks. It appears to be an identification medium almost as certain as fingerprints. I wonder if it has ever happened that a wife and the woman her husband kissed had the same kind of lipstick Anyway, we urge subscribers to be honest husbands. Do your kissing at home, gentlemen. Avoid temptation. If a predatory blonde makes eyes at you run from her as fast as you can. However, if you are a weak character and cannot control your emotions I suggest you carry a sponge with you to use to wash off lipstick smears. The really safe way is take the sponge and wash the lipstick from the lady's lips before you kiss her. However, this is a little radical and the lady might object on the grounds the procedure mentioned is not romantic.

LUCKY GIRL: Ever hear of a man leaving $400,000 to his secretary? It has happened. Sir William Jury, British film magnate, recently left that amount to his secretary, Florence May Cook. In addition to this handsome sum of money Sir William willed his house in the country to his charming amanuensis. So if you are somebody's secretary keep this in mind. Be nice to the boss. He may remember you in his will.

"It's Dave an' his jeep, all right!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NO FAIR AMERICAN newspaper hand would insist that Britain's imitation of our journalistic methods and ideas has been altogether salutary. It is a fact that in the efforts of London's popular press, as distinguished from the more stately blanket sheets, to jazz up news and features, British journalism produced some grotesque effects. They developed something which their conservatives called "the stunt press" and it was pretty awful.

Westbrook Pegler

Nevertheless, they did learn to put the punch in the lead and to publish the news quickly, instead of next week. They also adopted our professional rule against killing off a story by backing into it with such introduction as "last Wednesday, at the Shrewbury Assizes—"

In the course of the education of the British there came to New York and Washington one of the friendliest and most entertaining individuals who ever delighted our craft. His name was David Blumenfeld, the son of an American and a West Pointer, at that, who had gone to England a long time ago and had become, as editor of the London Express, a noted exponent of both American hustle and directness and British restraint or dignity.

AFTER A TIME they sent Dave down to Washington to learn our ways. There he wrote a historic lead on a story of vast importance for which he is as well remembered by those few who had the privilege to read it as Frank Ward O'Malley will ever be for his interview with the mother of the murdered policeman.

The United Press kept only a casual watch on Sunday nights in Washington in those days and Dave was sitting on the lid. The telegraph operator across the desk was the only other man on duty. Dave was beating out a long letter to his pater in London when the telephone rang.

Someone told him that Sen. Boise Penrose had died suddenly.

"How unfortunate," Mr. Blumenfeld exclaimed with just the proper degree of sympathy. "I'm dreadfully sorry. I am told he was a capital chap."

He resumed his letter to his father.

AFTER SOME TIME, an excited query came down over the wire from New York. The International News and A. P. were out with the story.

"Opposition says Penrose dead."

Dave scanned the message and resumed his letter to his dad.

Some telegraph operators are reluctant to cross the desk They stay on their side and mind their own business and let the news people attend to theirs. This fellow was friendly, however, and knew Dave's ignorance of some of our abnormalities in the handling of news. A few minutes later he asked tactfully: "Dave, did you see that message from NX?"

"Yes, yes," Dave said. "I am afraid it is only too true. Chap rang me up half an hour ago to tell me about it. A great pity. Awfully painful to the family, I dare say."

"But, Dave, they want a story from you about it. Hadn't you better phone his hotel and check and then do a piece?"

"Of course, splendid," Mr. Blumenfeld said. "Topping idea. Thanks for reminding me."

SO DAVE TELEPHONED the hotel and said he would like to speak to Senator Penrose. He was told that this was impossible. The Senator had died within the hour. Over the phone he heard the music of an orchestra in the lobby.

Our student now spat on his hands and prepared to turn out something for posterity.

I will let you decide whether he did, for, after a long and mighty struggle, this was the lead, American style, that he tossed across the desk to the operator:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23—From where he lay, had he been able, he might have heard, were he alive, the strains of lovely music from the orchestra in the lobby of his hotel. But Senator Boise Penrose, alas, had expired some five-and-twenty minutes before."

Dave gave up journalism and returned to England, where his talents, in a few years earned him a salary that was fabulous to working newspaper men. He became editor of the menu of the Lyons Coffee Houses, the London equivalent of our one-arm luncheries, composing each week an essay on vitamins, calories, travel and the origin of the term "porterhouse" as applied to a steak.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 7—Ginger Rogers' admiration for Gertrude Lawrence has been proven several times. First, when she followed her in "Lady in the Dark" and now she is bidding for "The Life of Gertrude Lawrence" as one of her first independent productions for RKO.

Doubleday Doran are bringing out Gertie's life in book form and it should make good reading. I'll always remember what a sensation she was when she first came here with Jack Buchanan and Bea Lillie in "Charlot's Revue." The Lawrence story would give Ginger a chance to dance, too, which is what she wants to do in some of her coming movies.

Ginger Rogers

I MUST SAY Paulette Goddard looks awfully well again. I saw her and Burgess Meredith having dinner and they are very excited over the story they are to do at RKO. They have selected "The Diary of a Chambermaid," by Octave Mirbeau, and Dudley Nichols is whipping it into shape, with Jean Renoir set to direct. "You see," said Paulette, "it's a co-operative arrangement. We all share in the profits and assume the production responsibilities." I haven't heard her as excited over a movie in a long time.

HELMUT DANTINE has turned playwright. In collaboration with Peter Brook, he has written a play, called, "To Hell We March." It has to do with the occupation of Germany. Dantine tells me as soon as he finishes his present picture he will start rehearsals, putting the play on at the Wilshire-Ebell Theater. "We'll turn the profits over each night to some war charity," he said, "such as the NAA, Ann Lehr's Guild or the VACS."

AN UNUSUAL CONTRACT is the one RKO has handed Ernst Matray as a combination choreographer (dance director to you) and full fledged director. This is one of the first deals of its kind ever signed by any dance director, since Matray does not necessarily have to select stories with big dance numbers to direct. Right now he's whipping up the dance inspirations for "George White's Scandals" and when he finishes he makes his selection for his first film as a megaphoner.

There was a great deal of satisfaction in our industry over the selection of Edgar Mannix as president of the Motion Picture Producers Association. Eddie is eminently fair in his decisions. He is capable and he is a 100 per cent motion picture man, having started in this business 30 or more years ago. He will make his decisions one way or another and never stand in the middle of the road, but first he'll know he is right. It's a great break for the industry, believe me, to have a man of Eddie's inherent fairness.

GEORGE RAFT is getting ready to work again and on another one of those independent setups. He's chosen Willard Mack's famous old play, "Kick In," which was a hit play for years and years and years. Of course, it will be modernized and changed, but in its way it was a great old melodrama. Well, the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and thousands and thousands of people saw it.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Barbara Hutton and Philip Reed table-for-twoing at the Beachcombers; Ian Hunter, who joined the British army at the beginning of the war, is getting an honorable discharge and is expected to return here to resume his movie career; Bette Davis, down with laryngitis, lost her voice and is off the set of "Stolen Life" for a few days; Tom Drake inherited a 30-months-old daughter when he married Chris Curtis. The youngster is the child of Michael Ames, to whom she was previously married; Joan Bennett, Walter Wanger and the two children, Stephanie and Melinda, leave for New York March 15 to spend Easter. While there, they will chaperone Diana, Joan's pretty 17-year-old, to a West Point dance; Cobina Wright, Sr., is writing the story of her life and bringing in her experiences in Hollywood as the final chapter; Graham McNamee's young widow, Ann, who has been in Tucson for months in very poor health, has recovered and is heading for New York to make it her home; There's a tip around that Warners are trying to talk Howard Lindsay into playing his stage role in "Life With Father" and the deal looks hot; Jimmy Walker, the one and only, is coming out from New York on a business deal for his record company; Lela Bliss tossed a special performance of "Dough-girls" for Louis B. Mayer and a party at her theater. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

NEW YORK, March 7—Eleanor Parker's dream boy is Joe Kirkland, the golfer... The "long underwear" scene in "Tonight and Every Night" slipped by when the censors weren't looking... Georges Carpentier, the former "orchid man" of the prize ring, is still running his bar in Paris... If Clark Gable marries Dolly O'Brien, his constant companion, he'll become the step-grandpa of four children... A famous stage and screen character (a star) has been told to cut out alcohol or risk losing his voice... Mara Williams, the new M-G-M starlet, and Joe Herron, ork leader at the Copacabana, have broken their engagement... A "well-informed source" predicts there will be 154 days of racing at Belmont this year.

Eleanor Parker

CHILI WILLIAMS isn't chili about Dick Foran... Betty Hutton has told mom that she wants to live alone from now on... Gen. MacArthur was the one who requested Kay Kyser recordings for propaganda use in the Philippines... White shirts won't be manufactured after July 1... The midnight curfew ruling may put several amusement guide magazines out of business... Bud Abbott is really sold on the Damon and Pythias notion. Last year he lost $100,000 to Lou Costello, gambling for high stakes. Insiders say he lost it on purpose, just to keep the little fellow happy... Producer Harry Delmar has snatched 19-year-old showgirl Kay Crespi away from young Val Valentinoff.

JERRY WAYNE will waltz down the aisle with blonde model Eleanor Nash when his divorce becomes final... Insiders say Errol Flynn received $1000 for playing in that tennis match—more than Big Bill Tilden got... Washington's in-the-know set can't wait for Cordell Hull's book. They hear that many Latin-American diplomats will have fits, for one thing... Petrillo shocked all the night club owners by bowing politely to the curfew ruling. He sent wires to the bistro hosts saying he would co-operate in every way.

JACKIE COOGAN may receive a medical discharge as the result of his recent illness... Geraldine Cole is now Mrs. Buddy Stewart. He's the Krupa band vocalist... Capt. Lanny Ross will be upped to major. He's doing duty in the Pacific theater... F. Hugh Herbert's gross from "Kiss and Tell" will add up to about $2,000,000... United Artists will have a shakeup... Lana Turner is still the best bet for "Amber."

VICE-PRESIDENT TRUMAN is rapidly becoming Washington's No. 1 party-goer. They say he doesn't give his glad rags a chance to cool off for one evening... I love Jimmy Durante's new ditty. It's titled: "What's Cugat Got That I Haven't Got and If I Got Wouldn't Look Good on Me Anyhow."

Boston After Dark

THE CURRENT ISSUE OF LOOK, the pic magazine, devotes most of the early part of its text to Sen. Saltonstall and the Missus... But the striking part of the feature, according to many observant Bostonians, is the astonishing resemblance of Leverett and the late Abraham Lincoln... Dan Parker, sports editor-columnist of the Daily Mirror, has been commissioned by Bennett Cerf, author of "Try and Stop Me," of Random House, to write a book on horse racing.

BAYARD SWOPE, who is suing Dan for seven and a half million, is NOT the hero... Dan also has sold the Sat. Eve Post a yarn on Lee Oma, and Cosmopolitan an article on race track touts... To make it wonderful, the able Mr. Parker, has peddled to Collier's a profile on Tin Pan Alley's Nick Kenny.

ANOTHER Mirror man who is crashing the publishing field with a bang is Paul Whelton, once of this sheet... Paul has sold a mystery novel, "Call the Lady Indiscreet."

THE MOST attractive bar in town is that of the Red Coach Grill's cocktail lounge... The glasses are colored, and pyramided attractively behind the serving slab... Gene, the bartender, is as decorative—the customers say—as the bar itself... Marty May returns to Boston, March 28, as the co-star of "Sons o' Fun." Olsen and Johnson's successful harlequinade which played the Winter Garden for more than a year... The road version of the O. and J. classic opens Friday in Providence... If it can fill in three weeks in New England before hitting Boston, its point of origin, by the way—then "show business" is indeed on the way back.

BERT LAHR'S very funny crack on the Hall of Fame radio show Sunday is intriguing the more "hep" members of the listening audience which heard Lahr and Beatrice Lillie cross-fire with gags for half an hour... Bert went into his traditional routine of imitating a stentor of opera, in full voice... "My!" said Miss Lillie. "What a powerful voice you have!"... "Powerful?" demanded Mr. Lahr, indignantly. "Why I'm the only guy Chloe ever answered."

The two new young girl singers at the Music Box are Peggy Norman and Muriel Hughes—the latter being a truly beautiful blonde of Graeco-American antecedents... Both kids have looks and personality... Miss Hughes' rendition of "My Heart Sings" is grand.

NOBLE AND KING have quit Boston—for the time being—with a supper show that had the customers in tears... They topped their best performance in their record-breaking stay at the Fensgate with a duet on "Lover Come Back to Me"... If you ever note a particularly throaty and tender note in the coloratura of Miss King when she is singing a song, it might be well to ruminate about the authorship.

IF THE LYRICS are by Oscar Hammerstein II (as are those of "Lover Come Back to Me,") the words will be delivered somewhat breathlessly... But Frances' partner, Harry Noble, holds the tender emotion for the great Hammerstein himself... When they sang "The Way You Looked Tonight," in the presence of Mr. Hammerstein a year ago, Oscar excused himself so that he could find a telegraph office... He wired Jerome Kern, who co-wrote such classics as "Old Man River," "The Last Time I Saw Paris," and "Make Believe" with Oscar, that he had just heard the best interpreters of Hammerstein-Kern melodies in years.

SHEILA BARRETT has finished a 12-week "Purple Heart" tour, and will be in Boston, at the Copley Plaza, the Mayfair or the Latin Quarter, before Spring really is here... And Maribel Vinson Owen and her ice show were booked tentatively for the Oval Room at the time of the last report from our New York "future events" departments... Candy Jones signs her postcards, "Yum, Yum—Candy"... Working with Lanny Ross and Irving Berlin, on the South Pacific front, Candy says she "was thrilled as a youngster"... Has it been reported that the inspired Berlin has been making personal appearances for the soldiers?

YOU STILL can't get a booking for Miami on the airlines... As for coming back—they say that even money can't book you a ride... Nice for John Huntingdon and Bob Perry, producer and director respectively of "Dark of the Moon"... The critics loved their play, and the public seems to be going along with them.

Political Parade

By George Rothwell Brown

Special to Boston American

WASHINGTON, March 7—President Roosevelt has headed straight down the middle of the road in his appointment of Fred M. Vinson to be Federal Loan Administrator.

Naturally, the relief in Congress is considerable, for there was fear that Mr. Roosevelt might be in one of his "left of center" moods when he came to naming a successor to Jesse Jones. Republicans are gratified that the appointment doesn't smack too much of partisan politics.

This doesn't mean that Fred Vinson isn't a strict party man. He is. And he will go down the line for the President in the determination of major policies in the great lending agencies of the government under the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

But he is not of the left wing, and will not go radical of his own volition.

While Vinson will carry out the wishes of the President he is a tough-minded sort of person and the smaller fry around the White House will not have a hand in his job. He will run the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and affiliated lending agencies himself—under the President.

VINSON is a lawyer, but unlike Jesse Jones he is not a banker and has had no banking experience. Neither has he had opportunity, until he took his present job as economic stabilizer, to demonstrate that he possesses executive ability.

Nevertheless he does have a considerable familiarity with RFC, having had a hand in setting it up.

His principal experience springs from his former service, as a representative in Congress from Kentucky, as a member of the House ways and means committee, which raises the billions that RFC spends and otherwise scatters around.

THE WASHINGTON SCENE will be omitted for a few days, owing to the illness of George Dixon

He has a keen sense of taxes.

On the committee he made a reputation as a hard-working fellow, with an amazingly level head. He is the sort of man who arrives at a sound premise from study, and goes on from there, never off at a tangent.

VINSON is of the small town and country lawyer type. He will probably feel very sympathetic toward small business, and best of all from the point of view of RFC he will get along very well on Capitol Hill.

Members of the House have found him, as chairman of the Board of Economic Stabilization willing to cut red tape and get things done, when the requests did not cut across or interfere with major policies.

He has done a number of very helpful things for his former colleagues, as spokesman in Washington for harrassed constituents, and his decisions have not been influenced by politics either, for in spite of his partisanship, the center aisle of the House has proved no barrier.

Nevertheless, from the President's point of view he is a dependable assistant who will carry out policy with a very firm hand.

AS AN INDICATION of his reliability, it will be recalled that back in 1937 while Mr. Vinson was engaged in putting through some important legislation reported from the ways and means committee, the President suddenly appointed him to be a member of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, a life-time job, and one greatly coveted.

There was no doubt of Mr. Vinson's pleasure. But he did not resign to take the new job. Not right away!

On the contrary he helped to establish what became an exceedingly bad precedent in Congress. After receiving the appointment to the bench he remained in the House for several months putting through legislation in which Mr. Roosevelt, who made the appointment, was very much interested.

New Play For Plymouth

"Star Spangled Widow," described as a tender comedy by B. Harrison Orkow, will bring Edward Nugent, Frances Reid and Dennie Moore to the Plymouth stage Tuesday evening, March 20, for a two-week run.

The youthful heroine has been widowed by the war. Her husband was an outstanding hero, so famous that the men she meets look upon her with awe rather than affection. She feels that she has become a national shrine and that no one recognizes that there is another springtime in her heart.

Hollywood director, William Castle, who directed "The Whistler," "The Mark of the Whistler" and "When Strangers Marry," is staging the play.

During the recent six-month tour that Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne and their supporting cast in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" made through Italy, France and The Netherlands, Miss Cornell and Guthrie McClintic celebrated both their 23d wedding anniversary and McClintic's birthday.

McClintic has directed every play in which his wife has appeared since her name first appeared on a marquee during the run of "The Green Hat," circa '26, including "The Barretts." He and Miss Cornell shared a belief in Rudolf Besier's dramatization of the romance of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning despite 27 rejections from Broadway producers.

LAUREN BACALL WITH HUMPHREY BOGART
In "To Have And Have Not"

Screen Hit Goes to Para-Fen

"To Have and Have Not," Warners'. Bogart-Bacall co-starrer which wound up in a blaze of front paged items, is due to move from the Met to the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow for a week's run.

The companion attraction is "The Jade Mask," latest Charlie Chan murder mystery thriller starring Sidney Toler in his customary Oriental sleuthing characterization.

"To Have and Have Not" is not another "Casablanca" although there are some carbon copy touches. It affords though, the first opportunity for the paying customers to gander The Look, as ex-model Lauren Bacall, has been rather generally acclaimed, in her screen debut.

She looks O. K., the boys are generally agreed, and her voice blends intriguingly with that sultry quality that comes through swell on the screen. That is, her speaking voice. Those singing tones you hear are reported to be from a boy's offstage tonsils, dubbed in expertly on the soundtrack so as to appear to issue from Miss Bacall's mouth.

Rescued by Rangers In RKO Scenes

American naval officers, rescued by Rangers in the daring raid on the Cabanatuan prison camp on Luzon, will be seen in scenes of RKO Radio's "The Invisible Army." Similar shots of more than a score of other American prisoners from various sections of the United States who were released from Cabanatuan will be the studio's re-enactment of a sensational raid on the prison camp.

Fashion

THE ETERNALLY smart black-and-white combination is used in this sophisticated one-piece crepe dress . . . with glittering brilliants exactly the size of the black polka dots sprinkling the top. Designer Rose Barrack adapted the sleeves from those of an 18th Century dandy's shirt . . . long and full with fitted cuffs. For extra glamor . . . there is the self-bow at the waistline . . . and the pert, over-the-left-eye hat to match the elegance of the hair-do.—R. M.

Introduction Hint

Girls, if you are engaged to the man you are introducing, speak of him as your "fiance," not as your "boy friend." For example, "Mrs. Smith, this is my fiance, Tom Phelps." If he is just a friend, mention his name only. On NO introduction occasion should you use the term "boy friend."

Indelible Lip Covering

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

FUNNY, BUT TRUE, how a well-turned slash of carmine picks up the facial spirits. Without a deft touching up of the cupid bow . . . most girls would feel like the last rose of summer . . . and look just as wilted. Without lip coloring . . . a girl is lost . . . and she doesn't need the caption to shout it for her.

She knows her facial good looks are completely gone when the mouth is pale and faded and when the outline is not definite. That's why you see so many hands digging into jammed purses after lunch . . each in search of the good, old kissable standby . . . the beacon that lights up any face, however drab.

But, it's probably happened to you as it has to us, and more than once. You've heard, no doubt, innumerable times . . . the valiant plea of your friends for an indelible lipstick . . . and censuring the cosmetic chemists for not having come up with lip coloring that stays on and on.

We beefed the same way . . . until we learned of an indelible lip coloring . . . yes, a clear lip liquid that colors the mouth and stays on for hours . . . and in a variety of simply luscious shades to choose from . . . ranging from brilliant coral through the true red and into the deep gay plum (our favorite) and others.

Before we gave our all to this amazing liquid liptone . . . we left telltale marks on everything our lips touched . . . sometimes with keen embarrassment. But now . . . not even the napkin which we out of habit touch to the corners of our mouth at mealtime conclusion . . . bears evidence that we are a lipstick gal.

It is not the nicest thing in the world to make up in public . . . but what's a lipstick eating gal going to do when the cream-type refuses to stay put on her lips . . . and the mirror reflects a mouth drained of every vestige of ruby-red vitality?

This color liquid . . . which comes with a tiny, rod-like applicator . . .

For the name of this indelible, liquid lip make-up, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE HOLLYWOOD GALS take no chances with their lips . . . the feminine accent of the positive . . . and they use a brush for the just-right outline. But a new and amazing liquid liptone . . . indelible on your lips for hours . . . and bell-like clear in color tone . . . has its own rod applicator for new beauty to pale lips. Lovely Marjorie Riordan shows how she accents those luscious kissables.

Low Point Treats

By MARTHA LEE

WHEN shopping for the family table, it's well to keep low-point cuts in mind, and use them as far as possible before they also take a jump upward. Until recently, tongue, sweetbreads and certain other items were ration-free. Now they require points, but fewer than most of the very popular meats.

Heart, tongue and sweetbreads—any one of these can be made into a substantial main course. Baked heart, tongue with raisin sauce, and grilled or creamed sweetbreads are examples of delicious entrees made from these meats.

Beef hearts weigh from 3 to 4 pounds, and one, stuffed with a filling cracker dressing, makes a generous meal for a family of four. The cracker stuffing uses only unrationed foods.

BAKED BEEF HEART

1 beef heart (3 to 4 lbs.)
1½ cups cracker crumbs
1 egg ¼ cup milk
¼ cup green pepper, chopped
2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tsp. salt

Remove all valves and blood vessels from heart. Combine rest of ingredients into a stuffing. Season cavity of heart, stuff, and fasten with skewers. Brown heart in bacon drippings or other fat. Then steam until tender, or pour 1 cup water in pan, cover closely, and bake at 350 deg. F. for 2 hours.

SPICED TONGUE

1 fresh or smoked beef tongue
Boiling water 2 tbsp. flour
2 tbsp. butter or other fat
1 qt. tongue stock ½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper
½ tsp. allspice 2 bay leaves
12 whole cloves 1 carrot, diced
1 medium-sized onion, finely chopped

Scrub fresh tongue, place in kettle, cover with boiling water and simmer, covered, 2 hours; remove skin and trim roots. Mix together butter and flour in saucepan; gradually stir in stock and cook until thickened; add salt, pepper, spices and tongue, and simmer 1½ hours, or until tender, adding vegetables ½ hour before meat is done. Serve hot or cold with or without gravy. For smoked tongue, use cold water, bring to a boil and proceed as above. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

RAISIN SAUCE

1-3 cup firmly packed brown sugar 1 tbsp. flour
½ tbsp. dry mustard
Dash of salt and pepper
1¾ cups boiling water
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup seedless raisins
1 tbsp. butter or margarine

Mix dry ingredients, add water and vinegar gradually, stirring well; simmer slowly 10 minutes. Add raisins and cook 2 minutes, or until raisins are plump; add butter. Serve hot with ham or tongue. Makes 2 cups of sauce.

CREAMED SWEETBREADS

Parboil 3 pairs sweetbreads and separate into small pieces; add to 2 cups medium white sauce made with rich milk, and heat thoroughly. Stir in 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten, just before serving, if desired. Serve on buttered hot toast or waffle sections, or in warm patty cases or croustades. Sprinkle finely minced parsley or paprika over top. Makes 6 servings.

PARBOILED SWEETBREADS

Sweetbreads spoil quickly and should be washed and put in cold water if not cooked at once. Cover with boiling salted acidulated water (1 tsp. salt and 1 tbsp vinegar to each quart of water); simmer, covered, 20 minutes; drain and cover with cold water to whiten and keep flesh firm. When cool enough to handle, remove membrane and tubes, then broil, saute, cream or prepare as desired. Allow ½ to 1 pair sweetbreads per serving.

Plan Seems Unwise

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm engaged to a sailor, although I am still going to high school and intend to graduate. My fiance is coming home soon on leave and wants us to get married then and keep it a secret, since I am still in high school. I have two more years to go. We would have to go to another state to marry.

Do you think we should marry now or wait until I graduate? Our parents do not know we are serious about each other. My parents are fond of him, and I have been going with him for over a year.

UNDECIDED.

Secret marriages, especially those of boys and girls still in school, have a way of coming out in the open, sometimes under unfavorable circumstances. You don't tell me your age, but as you still have two more years before you graduate from high school, I judge you're not older than 15 or 16, and in the state from which you write me, it is not legal for a girl to marry without her parents' consent 'til she's 21.

If you're bent on taking this rash step, better be assured that the marriage will be legal in the adjacent state.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Tuesday—It seems unbelievable that the Canadian and American armies have joined forces and that our troops are now on the Rhine. The day of doom is drawing closer, and one cannot help wishing that the German army and the German people would accept the inevitable and save both their own young people and others from the bloodshed of battle, not to speak of the sufferings of civilian populations which are being subjected to heavier and heavier daily bombings.

How trivial our daily round seems, and yet our ordinary lives must go on, in spite of anxiety or fear!

MONDAY EVENING we went to see "Snafu," and we certainly enjoyed Ronald Stevens as acted by Billy Redfield. He seemed completely natural, and as lines of boys and girls in Army and Navy uniforms came down to get their programs signed between acts, I looked at the boys from overseas and thought that quite a few of them might have gone through some of Ronald's experiences.

I hope, however, that most families are behaving—both in anticipation of their son's return and at the time when he actually arrives—with a little more calm and naturalness than was achieved by Mr. and Mr. Stevens.

* * *

THIS MORNING I went to Miss Selma Burke's studio to look at a head she has done of the President. Then a visit to the dentist and a lunch engagement with a small group of people.

In the afternoon I went to a meeting and tea at Mrs. Lash's house for the Wiltwyck School.

This school needs more friends if, in the course of the next few years, it is going to lay a real pattern for the treatment of young delinquents.

Since we are becoming more and more conscious of our obligation to the young people of our communities, I think if we can prove in one school that a child from bad surroundings—given the proper care—may be saved from real delinquency, we will have done something of value to the nation as a whole.

In the evening I am attending a dinner and returning to Washington by the midnight train.

New Pillbox Hat Is Higher

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE PILLBOX toque is one of the items in spring millinery styles intended for immediate consumption. This small, perky shape goes good with a suit, and likewise it is practical to wear in the windy March weather.

This season the pillbox toque is a bit higher, a bit more important, and that's all to the good, for it becomes less funny looking from the back and sides.

Florence Reichman makes some of the most delightful looking pillbox toques, and one of hers is sketched. This model is made of natural straw, and is worn forward with two pearl camellias and their leaves as trimming set at the front. A flattering dotted veil is worn over the face.

3 N. E. Tracks to Be Ready for Green Light

By JACK CONWAY

NEW ENGLAND'S three major race tracks, Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park and Rockingham Park, will be prepared to open as soon as Jimmy Byrnes gives the turf sport the green light. Maj. Thomas McCreery's interview in Washington with Gen. Lucius Clay, aide to War Mobilizer Byrnes, convinced horsemen and racegoers that there will be an easing up on racing restrictions as soon as it is possible, consistent with the war effort.

The end of the war in Europe, Maj. McCreery indicated, would bring about a return of racing.

James Byrnes

This has been the contention of this writer. I could never agree with those pessimistic persons who contended that the lid would be kept on racing until Japan as well as Germany is defeated.

Such a policy would not be consistent with the Army's plan to demoblize thousands of men each month after Germany surrenders. Soldiers coming out of the Army will need jobs. Race tracks and the numerous businesses that benefit will be able to furnish some of these jobs. Others will result from state projects and other public works which will be made possible by race track tax money.

President Roosevelt has promised that there will be 60,000,000 jobs in the postwar period. This means that racing will have to furnish its share of employment.

Gansett to Open

NARRAGANSETT Park will open its barns so that thoroughbreds may be quartered there and also trained at the track. With horses at Narragansett Park, the Rhode Island track will not have to worry about getting the needed thoroughbreds once racing is resumed.

It is expected that Edward O. Proctor and Edward Goode, receivers of Aldred Investment Trust who have become directors of Eastern Racing Ass'n, and their fellow directors will want to have the East Boston track in readiness for the resumption of racing. The track will have to be cared for following the severe winter, while some minor repairs will be made in the barn area.

Lou Smith of Rockingham Park is back in town and he is sure to take every possible step to safeguard racing in New Hampshire. Lou was always in favor of having sufficient horses in New England to fill the needs of the three major tracks.

It is only a minor expense to keep the barns of a track open. This should be done both for the protection of the tracks and also to give horsemen a chance to keep their outfits in training. The horsemen, especially those who had shipped to Florida, New Orleans or to California, have suffered financial hardships and they are entitled to assistance in the form of quarters for their horses.

Racing as a Business

THE GOVERNMENT, on careful study, recognizes that racing is a vast business. In addition to the horses that race at the various tracks, there are the breeding farms. At Lexington, Ky., there are 500 breeding farms which represent an investment of millions of dollars.

The new government policy is to place restrictions on non-essential businesses rather than eliminating them. This may mean that when racing returns it will be with a limited number of days for the sport of kings. In such an event each of the three New England major tracks should accept their share of the reduced racing dates. This is not a time when tracks can have a disagreement and survive.

Leafs 'Cousins' To Black Hawks

By the Associated Press

If the Chicago Black Hawks seek their unknown friends in the National Hockey League, they need look no farther than the Toronto Maple Leafs.

For today, after N. H. L. observers had all but given up the Hawks as a poor bet to squeeze into the league play-offs, the Hawks are still about—much too full of life to satisfy the Boston Bruins.

And one of the principal reasons is the Toronto Maple Leafs, who last night blasted the Bruins 5-2 at Boston, two nights after they had clipped the New York Rangers 6-3 at New York.

A week ago Boston held a firm grip on fourth place and only the Rangers were conceded an outside chance to overtake them. But the scene has changed.

Boston holds only a point lead over New York and two points over the Hawks. The Hawks and Rangers clash tonight at Chicago and the best the Bruins can hope for is a partner in the coveted playoff berth.

A win for the Rangers would put them ahead of the Bruins, while victory for the Hawks would create a Hawk-Bruin tie. A draw would leave Boston and New York even.

Cuba Turf Fans Lose on Win Bet

By ED CURLEY

HAVANA, March 7—Oriental Park is one place where there cannot be any minus pools. The track does not have to guarantee the bettor any compensation for his investment, and in a dead heat the players very often finds himself with a loss on his hands.

There have been cases here this winter where a dead heat has brought such payoffs as $1.60, $1.80 and $1.40 for $2 dagers.

In the United States this is impossible. The track must pay at least 10 per cent profit on every two-dollar bet, even if it means a loss to the track. However, Cubans seem to be ignorant of this fact and have lodged no complaints to our knowledge.

Another peculiarity here is the difference between odds posted as the horses leave the starting gate and the prices actually paid. The track officials take the closing odds from the bookies who operate here, but pay off according to the dictates of the mutual machines.

Consequently, a horse named Perla closed at 6 to 1 the other day but, instead of paying $14 or thereabouts as would be the case in the States, rewarded its backers with $35.80 for their deuces.

In another itansnce, Top Sawyer was 8 to 5 with the bookies, but the machines, at payoff time, quoted $10.40, or beter than 4 to 1.

Thus, in making a bet over the mutuel windows at Oriental Park, one is usually in the dark concerning the ultimate odds on the horse he picks.

Tech Hoop Classic Opens

Fairhaven High, in the championship running for the first time, and Framingham, a veteran title contender, send the schoolboys soaring into "big time" tonight when they clash in the opening games of Class B in the Eastern State Basketball (Tech) Tournament at the Garden.

This opener of the four-game nightly sessions will get under way at 6:30 p. m.

This Fairhaven - Framingham opener will be the start of a banner four days for the scholastic fans who promise to set new attendance records for this Tech Tourney.

They'll carry on tomorrow night and Friday with the finals slated for Saturday in both classes.

The bigger schools in the A division will wait until tomorrow night to get their elimination underway.

Coach Mel Entin's Fairhaven crew has chalked up an 11-4 showing this season against Framingham's 9-3, but the Fairhaven club undoubtedly will be bothered by the transparent backboards of the speedy Garden floor.

And the fact that Framingham has appeared in the Garden will make Coach Jack Daniels' crew a confident outfit.

Dovetailing this opener will be the clash between defending champion Braintree and Natick. Braintree, under Coach Bill Erwin, nudged Belmont out of the title last season in Class B.

There's a warning posted that the team will be very dangerous this year in spite of its indifferent 10-4 seasonal mark.

The favorites and strength of the tourney will be in the second half of the twin double-headers. In these games, Belmont will tangle with Rockland, winner of an elimination game with Milton, while Winthrop, co-favorite with Belmont, will tangle with Lexington, runner-up to Belmont in the Middlesex League.

Garden Card

CLASS B—First Round

6:30—Fairhaven (11-3) vs. Framingham (9-3).

7:00—Braintree (10-3) vs. Natick (10-3).

8:30—Belmont (16-3) vs. Rockland (11-4).

9:00—Winthrop (12-2) vs. Lexington (12-3).

Bruins Boot Maple Leaf Game

By BILL GRIMES

Although a majority of the 13,000 fans, who watched the give and take battle at the Garden last night, blamed Referee Bill Chadwick for the 5-2 setback the Bruins took from the Maple Leafs, the Rossmen have none but themselves to censure for the defeat.

There isn't any question but that the three minor and the ten-minute misconduct penalties, that Referee Chadwick dealt out to Pat Egan, helped the Maple Leafs. But, Chadwick called them as HE saw them and, as we saw them, he was right, except for the one he gave in the final period.

Pat's first infraction was tripping "Teeter" Kennedy. And, it was a trip beyond a doubt. There wasn't any excuse or even a reason for Egan to hook Art Jackson in the second chukker, when the former Bruin broke away and raced for the Boston zone. Pat was overtaking Jackson with every stride. If he had kept his stick on the inactive list, Pat would have passed Jackson and could have taken the puck away. But, instead, he reached out his stick and got a piece of Art's arm or jersey.

Chadwick had no alternative but to give Egan a misconduct penalty, when Pat threw his stick the length of the ice, after the official had waved him to the box.

The fans protested loudly. They threw programs and paper on the ice. The game was held up and it looked as though the Maple Leafs would miss the 11 o'clock train.

Egan sat out 14 minutes of the second period. Although the Bruins had six men in action when Nick Metz scored, Pat was still in the penalty box, with "Dit" Clapper, Jack Crawford and Jack Shewchuk doubling in brass on the outer defense.

Trailing 1 to 2, the Bruins were full of fight but when Metz, who was left unguarded in scoring position took a pass from Gus Bodnar and batted the disc into the nets, most of the wind went out of their sails. And, from then on, it was only a question of how many goals the Maple Leafs would score, which turned out to be two, one by Bodnar on a three man attack with "Sweeney" Schriner and Lorne Carr and another by Kennedy from a face off.

As they played last night, the Maple Leafs are a vastly superior club. Frank McCool received some valuable support out in front of his cage, from Babe Pratt, "Moose" Morris, Reg Hamilton and Wally Stanowski. And, if the outer defensemen were sucked out of position, the forwards acted as stand-ins.

Then, too, the Bruins made far too many mistakes to have even an outside chance to come up with a win. They played as though it was their first time together. They crashed into one another and time and again two players started for a loose puck and both turned away from the disc, which was usually picked up by a Maple Leaf player.

However, the Bruins are not out of the play offs as yet. If the Rangers beat the Blackhawks tonight in Chicago, which isn't very likely, the Rossmen will be back in fifth place. And, if Chicago wins or the game is another one of those no-decision affairs, the Bruins will yield a 50 per cent interest in the lone play off berth.

The crucial game will be played here on Sunday night when the Bruins clash with the Blackhawks. After their game with Rangers at home tonight, the Hawks will be idle until they go into action at the Boston Garden. On the other hand, the Rossmen, on top of two road games, will be on trains for more than 18 hours getting back home from Toronto after Saturday's game.

It looks bad for the Rossmen right now, but Manager Art Ross may shake up his lineup before the club meets the Hawks.

Unless they play better hockey than they did last night while losing a 5-2 decision to the Maple Leafs, the Bruins won't do any business in either Montreal or Toronto. They will leave for the Quebec metropolis tonight for a Thursday night tilt with the Canucks and then move over to Toronto, where they will perform on Saturday.

There isn't any question but that the Maple Leafs helped the Bruins on Sunday, when they turned back Rangers but the Daymen were not in a helpful mood last night. Over the years, the Toronto policy has been to play to win every game. When the N.H.L. was a two division loop, the Maple Leafs were never guilty of jockeying in order to meet a weaker opponent in the play offs.

Pres. Mervyn "Red" Dutton was to have been at the Garden last night, but his plane was grounded by bad weather and he wired his regrets. He's in New York today.

Hal Ballard, who has managed and coached Maple Leaf amateur farm clubs for years, made the trip with Toronto. Jack Crawford and Bill Jennings broke into hockey under Ballard.

After the game, Coach Hap Day declared that the Maple Leafs' cause was aided and abetted by the officiating. Possibly Day is right, but still the better club won.

The Toronto Maple Leafs question Murray Henderson's status with the Bruins. It is hinted, strongly, that Henderson was tampered with while he was in the service, which is strictly against the rules. The rapidity of Henderson affixing his John Hancock to a Boston contract started the scuttlebutt.

Lt. Don McFadden, of the U. S. Navy, who played for the Chicago Blackhawks some years back, dropped in to say "Hello" to Hap Day after the game. He has just returned from a shakedown cruise and is headed for foreign waters.

The Bruins had a decided edge over the Leafs in the opening but it didn't get them any goals. However, Bob Davidson scored for the visitors on a breakaway on which Paul Bibeault was stretched out on the ice before the Leaf winger reached the penalty shot line. All Bob had to do to score was to lift the puck off the ice, which he did.

Lt. Jack Riley, of the Marine flying corps, watched the game from the press box, while Capt. Bob O'Brien, another former Dartmouth athlete, who was decorated while with the Marines in the South Pacific, was an interested spectator. Capt. Bob is many pounds lighter than when he played tackle for the Big Green.

Dave Wilson, the country's leading handicapper, learns quickly. "If I was going to make a living playing hockey" declared "Whitey." "I'd be a goal tender. That's where the dough is."

"Moose" Morris was tossed around by Jack Shewchuk and Herbie Cain in the second period. The two Bruins hit him terrific checks and tipped him over.

Wally Stanowski, who was such a promising youngster before he joined the Canadian Air Corps, has slowed down to a walk. There's something about the Army life that robs hockey players of their speed.

The hockey writers will vote on the Dufrense Trophy next Tuesday. It looks like Jack Crawford, now that Trainer Win Green has admitted that he didn't have a good season, due to inferior grade of available linaments.

Devore 5th Grad To Coach Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 7 (AP)—Another alumnus has been added to the roster of former Fighting Irish who for decades have been directing the football fortunes beneath Notre Dame's golden dome.

He is John Hugh Devore, 34, Irish line coach for the past two years—and Notre Dame's third head football coach and athletic director in as many seasons.

Devore, football co-captain at Notre Dame in 1933, and an Irish end three years, was appointed acting athletic director to succeed Ed McKeever, who resigned last week to become head coach at Cornell.

Devore's appointment is effective until the return of Lt. Frank Leahy, who resigned a year ago to enter the Navy.

McKeever, backfield coach under Leahy, took over the job a year ago when the latter left. Devore, one of Leahy's assistants, will have both Adam Walsh and Clem Crowe, with whom he worked last fall, as assistants this year, along with a third coach to be appointed.

The former coach at Providence, Fordham and Holy Cross is the fifth Irish grid player since the late Knute Rockne took over at Notre Dame to direct the Ramblers' football fortunes. Others, in addition to Rockne, were Hunk Anderson, who succeeded Rockne; Elmer Layden and Leahy. McKeever, while not a graduate, was a former Notre Dame student.

Devore, married and father of four children, was born in Newark, N. J., and was a star athlete at St. Benedict's High School in that city. He entered Notre Dame in 1930, and played football and basketball.

After graduation in 1934, he remained as freshman coach at Notre Dame a year, and then went to Fordham as assistant to Jim Crowley. In 1938 he became head coach at Providence, and in 1942 went to Holy Cross as assistant to Ank Scanlan. He returned to Notre Dame as line coach in 1934.

Michigan State Wins Hearst Trophy

CHICAGO, March 6—The straight-shooting team of Michigan State won first place among senior units of the Sixth Service Command in the 1945 William Randolph Hearst national ROTC rifle competition, it was announced today by Maj. Gen. Russel B. Reynolds, commanding general of the Army area embracing the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The Wolverines, firing a team score of 937, nosed out the University of Illinois, whose three teams made a clean sweep of the 1944 Hearst match in this command by capturing first, second and third places.

Von Elling Tips Hagg On 'Soft Trail' Work

By LEWIS BURTON

Battle lines have been drawn between Swedish and American processes of training for indoor races. Gunder Hagg, Swedish exponent of soft-trail conditioning, is following out the system which has made his homeland the foremost producer of great distance runners as he prepares for his second mile race on boards Saturday at the Garden.

Emil von Elling, NYU track coach, has cautioned him to make changes in his program.

Sage, forthright Von Elling figuratively shook a finger at Hagg in a warning lecture before a meeting of track writers here. He strongly intimated that Hagg is slowing down his preparation by failing to work out regularly on boards.

"Running on boards has a different effect on the muscles than running on cinders," he cautioned. "I guarantee you that Jim Rafferty could not run as fast on cinders right now as he could on boards, because his muscles have been adjusted to indoor running.

"Paavo Nurmi was smart. He worked out three times a day, finishing up on armory floors at night. He did it on both his first and second visits here, and his success spoke for his wisdom.

"Glenn Cunningham worked on boards. To ease the shock, however, he always used flat-soled basketball sneakers. He used spikes only in actual competition.

"I know that Hagg is operating under a great handicap. Leslie MacMitchell, on sea duty, manages to run on the deck of his ship and to take jogs daily whenever he gets on land, but if he were to attempt to race a mile now he would do no better than 4:30 or 4:35."

Von Elling expressed willingness to help if Haag will come up to N. Y. U. this week. Haakon Lidman, Hagg's fellow traveler, said Hagg will take one workout on the University Heights board track this week, perhaps with the Callender twins.

Meanwhile, any visitor to the Central Park Mall these mornings can see Hagg pursuing the "soft-trail" policy, running haywire, prancing around like a playful puppy getting his legs in shape.

He did about 2½ miles yesterday. He doesn't know how good he'll be in the K. of C. meet Saturday. He promised he'll have a statement Friday.

Hagg's persistence in adhering to the Swedish soft-trail system, if he can prove himself right in one week, may revolutionize American ideas.

The Swedes believe that the muscles should not have the shock of a hard track imposed upon them until the actual race.

It was noted that Saturday, in the Garden, Hagg did not warm up in the accustomed sense. He stretched his legs a couple of times with short jogs. That was all. Nurmi, Cunningham and all their successors, ran about three-quarters of a mile in the hour before their races.

Senators Hold First Practice

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 7 (INS) — Baseball opens the spring training workouts of its unpredictable 1945 season when a handful of Washington Senators report today at the University of Maryland, situated just outside the national capital.

Washington is the first club to start spring training and the rest of the big league teams, operating under an amber light from the government, will follow suit throughout the week in preparation of their fourth wartime season.

Six pitchers and two catchers are in the first group who will toss the ball around today under the direction of Manager Ossie Bluege, but conspicuous by his absence will be holdout Catcher Rick Ferrell. Prominent in the club's plans for the new season, Ferrell is not expected to report for some time.

Chicago Cubs Off for Camp

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—Sixteen of the 37 players on the Chicago Cubs spring training roster were to leave tonight for the club's training camp in French Lick, Ind.

Six pitchers were among the group. The team's first workout is scheduled tomorrow under direction of Manager Charlie Grimm, who has been at the camp for several days.

9 Dodger Players Under Contract

NEW YORK, March 7 (INS)—With the addition of three more signed contracts today, the Brooklyn Dodgers now have nine players safely in the fold.

The latest signatures were obtained from Ed Stankey, second baseman; Tom Brown, 17-year-old shortstop, and Mike Sabena, recently obtained from the Braves. Those previously signed are Catchers Ray Hayworth and Mickey Owen, Pitcher Curt Davis, Outfielders Goody Rosen and Luis Olmo, and Howie Schultz, first baseman.

45 Penn-Navy Ducat Sale Under Way

PHILADELPHIA, March 7 (AP)—The ticket sale for next fall's Penn-Navy football game already has begun.

"Please put me on the list for two tickets," GM Ic John Stevenson wrote Penn from the Sea-Lees' Camp Parke, Cal. "I'm a native of Philadelphia and expect to be home by that time."

Pics, Philly In Loop Final

The Olympics are in Philadelphia, taking time out from the play-offs with two victories in their favor, to play the Falcons this evening in the final game of the Eastern Hockey League.

With the exception of Ty Anderson who is to be replaced by Bingo Ernst the entire squad made this trip. Anderson will rejoin the Pics when they stage a three-game series with New York Rovers in resuming the USHA play-offs Friday and Saturday night at the Boston Arena, and then transfering to Madison Square Garden on Sunday afternoon.

Tuesday's practice session found Harvey Bennett warming up to take over goal after tonight's game marking the only change in the starting lineup for the play-offs. Jack McGill will continue with the Bruins.

Tommy Brennan will have his last chance this evening to add to his high scoring record of 53 goals, 55 assists for a total of 108 points.

Brennan has a 13-point lead over his closest rival, Ray Powell of Baltimore, who has 95 points. Alan Percival of Washington is third with 91, and the Pics' Russ Kopak, Theo Hamel, Marcel Fillion and Al Rittinger follow in this order.

Babgy Signs '45 Contract

ATLANTA, March 7 (AP)—Jim Bagby, Jr., elongated right hander of the Cleveland Indians, has signed his 1945 contract, he said today, adding, however, it did not necessarily mean he would play with the Indians.

"I intend to wait and see what is the government's attitude toward baseball before reporting for spring training," he explained. "I might stay right here on this job."

Bagby, classified 4-F last year, works at the Bell bomber plant near here. He did not disclose terms of his contract.

Mack Leaves Coast To Join A's Squad

PHILADELPHIA, March 7 (AP)—Connie Mack says he's anxious to end his long California vacation and start the Athletics' spring training. Telephoning yesterday, he told son Earl Mack he would be here Monday, at the A's Frederick, Md., camp Tuesday.

The club meanwhile announced the signing of Jack Lee Stawart, former Campbell (N. C.) College catcher, and Third Baseman Joe Burns, who came up from Indianapolis last season.

Court Beginner Wins Most Valuable Award

PHILADELPHIA, March 7 (AP)—Freshman Robert Carlson had never seen a college basketball game until he started the '44-'45 season as a starting player for Penn.

Last night Carlson received the Penn Basketball Club's Kiefaber cup as the Army-whipping championship team's most valuable player.

TEN YEARS AGO—Sir Malcolm Campbell broke world speed record, averaging 276.816 m.p.h., but fell far short of 300 m.p.h. goal.

TODAY'S HONOR ROLL OF CASUALTIES

"There is no sanctuary for brave men, danger allures them as the moon the tide; what they have dared they will dare once again though they lose all else in the world beside."—(A. G. Herbertson.)

The War Department today announced the names of 1999 soldiers KILLED IN ACTION in the European, Mediterranean and Southwest Pacific areas, including 85 with next of kin residing in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine.

Next of kin in all cases have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status. In case of divergence between this list and information sent next of kin, the last telegram or letter from the department to next of kin is the final authority on the status of a soldier.

The Navy Department also announced today the names of 99 casualties of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, including nine with next of kin residing in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Flood Victim Rescued—Cincinnati firemen rescue a city employee marooned in a building after flood waters, rising 13 feet above flood level, swept through the city in its most disastrous flood in years. Lunken Airfield, Cincinnati's municipal airport, is inundated, and the huge Wright plant, makers of B-29 motors, is isolated. Thousands have been made homeless by the rising water.
